

PBS ONLINE NewsHour with Ray Suarez
MEET THE CANDIDATES: DENNIS KUCINICH, February 27th, 2003

“Think instead of how powerful a force the United States could be if it proceeded to gather the support in the world community for continued containment and inspections.”

“I’m also a board member of Parliamentarians for Global Action, which is one of the largest groups of parliamentarians in the world, and I meet regularly with world leaders from countries around the globe. I’m no stranger to the complexities of international affairs or to working with people from other countries, and I think what we can do as a nation is have leadership which works to reinstate the nuclear posturing, which works to reinstate the nonproliferation treaty, which will eventually do away with all nuclear weapons, which works for the biological and chemical weapons conventions. The Landmines Treaty, Small Arms Treaty, the International Criminal Court are all ways of assuring international security. The President of the United States can lead the way in that, and I think I can make a major contribution in international relations towards taking the approach of cooperation as opposed to unilateralism.”

“War should not be inevitable. Peace should be inevitable.”—Rep. Dennis Kucinich, D-OH, USA